COURSE OVERVIEW

The main aim of this course is to provide the students with up-to-date tools of development evaluation. Students should be able to design an evaluation study best suited for the intervention. Throughout the course students will be working on designing and later conducting an evaluation. They should be able to develop analytical skills and practical knowledge, skills essential for design and conducting evaluations as well as presentation skills.